The officers of the Portland & Ogdensburg Railroad are making experiments in beating cars by steam. The system used was devised by Superintendent Hamilton and Master Mechanic Babb, and has workand master mechanic book, and has work-ed so successfully on several trial trips, that regular trains will now be equipped with it. The coupling used, always an im-portant part of steam system, is an entire-ity new one, recently patented by Messrs. Babb and Hamilton. By the will of the late Ann Crockett, of

By the will of the late Ann Crockett, of Portland, she leaves—after the payment of some 8350 to relatives—one half of the balance of her estate to the Female Orphan Asylum, of Portland, with the understanding that the directors shall keep the family burial lot at Shapleigh in order so long as it shall be used for a place of burial. The remaining half she leaves to the Maine Baptist Missionary Convention for a perpetual fund, to be known as the "Crockett Fund," the interest to be devoted to aiding feeble churches and domestic missions. It is probable the Asylum and Convention will receive about a thousand dollars spiece.

A man who gives his name as John Mc-Innis, of South Boston, was found crouched in a doorway in Portland, Tuesday. He was partially intoxicated but claimed to be suffering from the effect of drugged liquor and could not move his limbs. He was taken to the police station and told his story there. He says he came from Boston by Moonlay night's boat, and on the passage made the acquaintance of a man who on arriving at Portland took him to the house where he lived. There he was given something to eat and drink, was given something to eat and drink, after which he remembers nothing until he found himself wandering the streets; and shortly afterward he dropped in the doorway where he was found. He says he was robbed of a small sum of money—all he had.

Last Thursday, the five-year-old daughter of E. Chadwick, of Palermo, was badly burned by the back of her dress taking fire from a stove. Her mother, who was in the barn or shed, hearing her screams, hastened to her rescue with all possible speed, and stripped her of her clothing, thus arresting further progress of the flames, in doing which her own hands and arms were badly barned. Medical aid was soon procured and both are recovering. York..

Monday, while William F. Cummings, of Saco, was hunting rabbits in the Ferry woods, his bound scented the track of a fox and started in hot pursuit after him. In a short time the fox was driven into the vicinity of a party of gunners consisting of Messrs. Garry, Wagner and Piper. Garry secreted himself behind a tree and when reynard got abreast of him he gave him a charge fuil in the breast. The fox, however, did not stop, but continuing his mad pursuit for safety, ran into the vicinity of Wagner, who also gave him the contents of his rifle. And still the fox kept on, and it was not until Piper had given him at full charge in the breast that he succumbed to the inevitable.

The weak arguments in favor of so Congressman from Maine, and bosom called recipror ty based upon the rights friend of Mr. Blaine, held the audience in and interests of our fishermen, are conclusively answered by the statements made. The speech was dignified in tone, impresson Wednesday at the great meeting of the National Fishery Association at New and unanswerable in conclusion. page 535:

"Not content to rest his aroument upon this statement alone, Mr. Evarts called Lord Salisbury's attention to the fact that if the mackerel estimated at the most extrawagant price of 810 per bbl. and half the sum be estimated as net profit, the total value of the fishery would be but $125,000 per annum or $1,500,000 for the twelve years. The only problem, therefore, left for the Government of the United States to consider, was whether in exchange for the $5,500,000 awarded by Mr. Delfoese, and the $1,200,000 of duties remitted to Canada on fish and lish oil, we were actually to receive a total of $300,000, or $1,500,000? In other words was the loss to the United States by the transaction to be $9,400,000, or $8,200,000."

The general indignation of our people.

The general indignation of our people was shared by the Senate of the United Oysters I Oysters I States, as is shown by the dignified but emphatic language of the report of the Committee on Foreign Relations prepared and presented by its Chairman, Hon. Mr. BEECHER BICKFORD. ilamlin, representing the Committee on Foreign Relations, was careful not to put said the report, "we may regard the award "made at Halifax as excessively exorbitant and possibly beyond the legal and proper power of those making it, your "committee would not recommend that "the Government of the United States "disregard it, if the Government of Her Brittanic Majesty, after a full review of "all the facts and circumstances of the "case, shall conclude and declare the "award to be lawfully and honorably "due." The report added that: "The in-"intelligence and virtue of British states-"men cannot fall to suggest that arbitration can only be retained as a fixed mode of "adjusting international disputes by de-"monstrating its efficiency as a method of "securing mutual justice and thus assurling that mutual content without which "awards and verdicts are powerful only

The present attempt of Mr. Bayard and Minister West to use the fishery troubles provoked by Canada to pry open our markets for Canadian products, is but a renewal of the old tactics, with which the American people have become tro familiar. TERRIBLE DEATH FROM HYDROPHO-A Man Dies in a New York Hospital after Repeated Convulsions. NEW YORK, Nov.16. Charles Cavanan, the crippled porter who went to the Chambers street Hospital on Monday afternoon suffering from symptoms of hydrophobia, died at 6.20 a. m. yesterday in that institation, after hours of terrible suffering. His death left no doubt in the minds of the attending nhysicians that he was a victim of tending physicians that he was a victim of rables. An autopsy was held yesterday afternoon by Dr. Ferguson, the pathologist of the Society of the New York Hospital. Dr. Swinburne, of the same institution, assisted him, and afterward, stated that the post-mortem examination revenled "the spinal cord in a normal condition to the naked eye, and the brain and internal

The dead man was a happy-go-lucky The dead man was a happy-go-lucky person and worked as porter about Washington Market. On October 8th he, with two others, a travelling sulesman and a boy of fifteen, were bitten by a big Newfoundland dog which was rushing through a crount user the market. After bitter a crowd near the market. After biting these three the dog was shot by a police-

Cavanan was bitten on the little finger. Cavanan was bitten on the little finger and the forefinger of the right hand. The saksman was bit slightly through an alligutor skin shoe in the foot. The hoy was bitten in toe hand. All three went to the Chambers Street Hospical, where the wounds were cauterized and they went away. On Monday afternoon when Cavanan entered the reception noom of the hospital and book his seat behind the big stove Superintendent Parks at once recognized him as having been there before. Cavanan was trenobilog and constantly expectoratwas trembling and constantly expectorat-ing. Now and then a shudder would run through his frame and he appeared to be choking. Dr. Parks remarked to Dr. Wedekind, who took charge of the case, that he thought it would be a case of hydrophobia.

Dr. Weileklad asked Cavanan to "look Instead the poor fellow looked down at his feet. When asked questions he trembled and intimated that talking would give him a spasm. He was unable to swallow and opiates were administered swallow and opiates were administered hypodermically.

From that time on the progress of the disease was frightfully rapid. Convulsion followed convulsion, until it was seen that recovery was impossible. At the patient's own request he was put into a strait-lacket. The physicians and strong nurses watched him through the night. Once as Dr. Wedekind was about to leave the room, Cayanan said:

At another time he said: "Doctor, I am frightened. It is a terrible deoth to die."
In the evening he asked for a priest, and one came and sate with him for awhile.
Il is death followed hard upon a series of convulsions of terrible intensity. He did not bark or froth at the mouth, but tried to expectorate constantly. Death, in the language of the physicians, was immediately due to "asphyxia and heart failure caused by convulsions and fixation of the muscles of respiration."

KING GEORGE III. was once kept waiting some time after the hour apmidlence of him. When the d. m. put in an appearance, he said gally, "Better late than never, George." "On the contrary, hetter never than late, old man." The first rendering of the old proverb is the one we favor in connection with SOLID GOLD JEWELRY people wish us to make them, but, all the same, would request an early placing of Christmas orders. 24 Main Street. JNO. T IBBETS & CO.
